Fayetteville Academy.

THE Examination of the Students of this Institution will take place on the 22d inst., and the exercises recommence on the 10th July.

The Committee of Superintendance have the satisfaction to state, that the prospects of this Institution are as flattering at this time as they have been at any former period. The Rev. Mr. Hollister, a gentleman who bears the highest testimonials, both of his education and experience, has been engaged as the Principal of this Academy; he will take charge of the Classical Department, as well as exercise a general controul over the institution. He will be assisted by Mr. Gay, with whose excellent qualifications the Committee have had an opportunity of becoming acquainted, together with such other Tutors in the English Department, as may be found neceseary. The Female Department will be under the direction of Mrs. Hollister, and will no doubt, be found to be one of the best Schools for young Ladies in the Southern States.

The advantage of having an Institution of this kind, where the manners are to be formed as well as the intellect improved, under the influence and example of a respectable and well regulated community, the uniform healthiness of this town, for several years past, and the peculiarly comfortable apartments, erected at considerable expense for the accommodation of the School, with the cheapness of tuition and board, altogether, warrant the Committee in recommending the Institution to the notice of the public, particularly to those of the low country. The central situation of Fayetteville, and the facilities furnished by the mails, affording opportunities of correspondence, almost every day in the year, with all parts of the country, is a consideration which will not be lightly esteemed by parents who may be under the necessity of sending their children abroad for their education. Boarding can be had in many of the respectable families in town, at a moderate price.

It may be well, likewise to state, that the conduct of youth sent to this Institution, particularly those from abroad, will be carefully observed, as well out of the School as within it, and a proper degree of attention will be paid to their habits, manners and morals, as well as their scholastic education.

JOHN MACRAE,
Secretary of the School Committee.

Another, and another!—Within a few days we have recorded three accidents, one fatal and the others very serious, from the injudicious practice of leaping from a carriage while the horses are running away with it, or, indeed, while moving at common trotting speed. We have now to notice another, which, though not fatal, was very nearly so to a valuable young citizen of Baltimore. On Wednesday 23d ult. near Charlestown, Va. Mr. John G. Collins and B. F. Voss, of Baltimore, were riding into that town in a gig, when the horse took fright and ran. The former gentleman endeavored to avoid injury by jumping from the gig, and in so doing, received a severe contusion on the head. He has suffered extremely from the wound, but we are glad to state that his physicians think he is now out of danger. Mr. Voss, who remained in the gig, was not injured.—Balt. Patriot.

From a paper written in a singular vein, but not without force, in the last London Magazine, we make the following Extract, which in its moral is alike applicable, wherever human passions prevail.

The paper is called "Aerostatical Speculations over London"—and Asmodeus, from his floating balloon, is supposed, as of yore, to unroof the houses of the dwellers below, and expose their frailties.

"Turn your eyes now to the quarter of St. James's," said Asmodeus. "What black-legged devil is that," asked I, "who has lifted off the lid of one of the club-houses?" "Never mind," said my instructor. "Observe the players; a Corinthian and an ecclesiastical order distinguish two; a grand cross the third; and the Jager is distinguished by a fox's brush in his cap. The dice are human skulls. One plays out of his family sarcophagus; the other out of his own pulpit; and the third out of his regimental big-drum; and the fourth out of a huge racing-cup. See, what a transfer there is of manors, halls, livings, and commanderies. They have come to paper-money already; leases, pedigrees, sermons, and commissions, all gone to the devil's exchequer; for you may see club-foot snatching up the stakes as fast as they lay them down; but he has closed them in again, and is going his rounds among his other private banks. He has not far to go. You see, he lifts up another roof, and peeps in." "My hearts!" exclaimed I: "but he must be gratified with what he sees there: those must be a gang of his undertakers and resurrection-men?" "Those are our rouge et noir and ecarte players," observed the devil. "They card-players!" cried I; "why it is flat tomb-stones they hold in their claws. I read distinctly on one, 'Here lies a beloved mother.' On another, 'Beneath are deposited the remains of a wretched father.' On a third I see, 'To the memory of a broken-hearted wife.' There is not one of those cards, as you call them, but records the melancholy fate of some poor victim of affection and despair.—Nay, I see 'Suicide' written plainly on half the pack." "You are quite right," said my conductor; "and if you will look at the players, you will find they are playing for ropes, daggers, vials, pistols, chains, and gibbets; and that they score with death's heads and bones." Oh! what a scowling set of visages were there; what gnashing of their teeth and beating of their brows, along with such horrid exultation.—Surely Dante and Milton must have drawn their appalling images of hell's inmates from some such scene as this. "These sports of old Club-foot," continued Asmodeus, "have become so fashionable among us high-born demons, as to drive love, laughter and harmless gallantry, to the vulgar, low-bred imps, who too frequently pervert them into lust and brutality; but our most potent, grave, and reverend seniors, have no other excitement but these same games of skulls and tomb-stones."

LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

New York, September 4.

The packet ship Montano, from Havre, brings us Paris papers to the 24th ult. from which we make some translations. From these it would appear that the king of Spain is very uneasy at the idea of having a country so near, and so similar as Portugal, governed by a constitution, while the inquisition and the sabre are the only known forces in his dominions. England has managed with some address in this matter. Apprehensive of the influence of France, while her troops retained possession of the strong holds of Spain, the English government have countermined upon the old ground in Portugal, and by inducing the Regent to grant a consitution and representative government to her subjects, they have established a most effective counteracting force upon the designs of the French, who, in supporting an ultra government and ultra doctrines in Spain, may be supposed to look something to the reputation of their own power and influence in that country.

The London Sunday Times of July 23, says, "We hear that a great dissention has broken out in the Cabinet between Mr. Peel and Mr. Canning; the first recommending the immediate relief of the manufacturing districts by pecuniary aid; and the latter insisting on the pernicious nature of the precedent. A dissolution of the ministry is talked of as the probable result."

The grain harvest had commenced, the accounts of which from almost every quarter were favorable and auspicious.

The intelligence from the city of Cork, is of the most harrowing character—families were to be found which had not tasted food for two days and two nights.

A serious riot had taken place at Dumfries, in consequence of a meal monger taking the advantage of an inadequate supply, and attempting to advance the price of meal 2d. per stone. He barely escaped with life.

The denouement of the revolution at Constantinople is yet to be had. The distant provinces havs not been heard from. Meantime much uneasiness as to events seems to have prevailed in the capital; and executions and assassinations of the Janissaries was still going on. Out of all this, hope for the Greeks seems more rational.

France appears tranquil and prosperous. The new procureur du Roi, de Belleyme, who succeeds M. Bellart, lately deceased, declared himself in his speech of initiation, in favor of the liberty of the press, which he termed "precious," and which he deemed "one of the most useful guarantees" of the public liberties. The liberal journals look upon the declaration as an homage to public opinion and to the firmness of the judicial tribunals, which have refused on more than one recent occasion to lend themselves, in prosecutions for alleged licentious publications, to the views of ministers.

Accounts from St. Petersburg, of the 4th of July, state that the sentence of the conspirators had been pronounced, and that only seven were condemned to death.

The bodies, to the number of some thousands, of the Janissaries, which during the late disturbances at Constantinople were thrown into the water, are now floating on the sea of Marmora.—Jour. du Com.

Extract of a letter dated Liverpool, July 24.

"We regret much to inform you, that our market for cotton continues extremely depressed, as you will perceive from the annexed statement of sales during the past week, to which we beg reference; and the import continues so extremely heavy, that we fear there is no immediate prospect of improvement."—Sales of Cotton, 20 bales Sea Island, average 16¢; 2182 Uplands 6 1-8; 567 Orleans 6 7-8; 1552 Alabamas 6 1-8; 205 Egyptian 7 3-8.

New York, Sept. 5.

The Editor of the American is indebted to Captain Arnold, of the ship Robert Wilson, which arrived last night in 35 days from Liverpool, for the loan of Liverpool papers of the 29th and London of the 27th of July.

The crops throughout the Kingdom are generally good.

London, July 25.

The merchants and others connected with Greece, are disappointed this morning at the absence of intelligence respecting Lord Cochrane. We cannot find that the Mediterranean Packet brings any account of his squadron. We understand he was expected at Napoli di Romania.

The accounts of the market day at Manchester on the 25th, are more favorable than for two months preceding. There was more business doing in goods, and at better prices. The market was, however, by no means brisk. All the letters say that "there appeared a favorable change." The accounts from Liverpool are quite the reverse.—Globe.

Liverpool, July 29.

We lament to state that the distress which we so often have had occasion to mention, continues to increase; day after day some hundreds of our wretched countrymen are added to the thousands already destitute of employment, and an accumulation of misery is occasioned which demands instant and effectual relief. The funds so promptly and so generously raised by private subscription are exhausted, and in our opinion, it becomes the imperious duty of government, to institute an immediate inquiry into the state of the country and to adopt those measures which may appear best calculated to restore us to prosperity and peace.

Cobbett says 'in Parliament he must be, or there must be a dreadful convulsion.' He has a 'remedy for every evil, but in Parliament he will be, or that remedy shall never be communicated."

Liverpool Markets, July 29.

This has been a much better week than the preceding one, except for drysalteries.—There has been a good demand for Cotton at an improvement of ¼d. per lb. on the lower descriptions of American. The sales of the week have been 13,100 bags, including, of Am. 210 Sea Islands, 12 to 16d.; 5260 Uplands, 5¼ to 7d.; 1710 Orleans, 6 to 8¼d.; and 3700 Alabamas 5¼ to 6¼d.

Extract of a letter from an officer on board the Cyane at Pernambuco.

"Our reception here was highly flattering—civilities of every kind was shewn us—we interchanged salutes. In firing our salute we hoisted the Brazillian flag at the fore.—On the Consul reaching the ship, he stated to Captain Elliott, that the English man of war had refused this, although called upon by the authorities to do so, and that on declining, their salute was not returned.—When Capt. E. was presented to the President of the Province, he remarked to him, that he could not avoid returning his thanks for the performance of this spontaneous act, and what the English had refused when asked, &c.; that our nation seemed the one which could be called upon when in distress. On the presentation of Capt. Elliott to his Brazillian Majesty, he was extremely courteous. We here met with Rear Admiral, Sir Geo. Eyre, in the Wellesley 86, with some of the French squadron, Admiral Rosewell. Our anchor was scarcely let go, when Sir Geo. Eyre sent his first Lieutenant with a polite message, offering his services. On Captain Elliott's visiting the Admiral, he met with the officer who commanded the Cyane when she was captured by Commodore Stewart. The day following, the Admiral visited the Cyane, with other officers, and invited Capt. Elliott to dine. At his table Capt. Elliott met with Sir John Phillemore, of the Britton, Lord H. Fin of the Ranger. Captain Elliott gave in return, a splendid entertainment. In honor of Sir John Phillemore who so generously saved our seamen on the coast of Spain, Captain E. gave this toast which was most enthusiastically received—"Britain and America: may each be emulous in the performance of those acts which may bring back the kindly feelings of parent and child." Here we met with Lord and Lady Ponsonby; she is the daughter of Lord Holland; he gave Captain E. a most splendid dinner. While Admiral Rosewell was here, salutes and visits were interchanged—nothing unpleasant occurred during our intercourse with these foreign squadrons. A little before our departure, Capt. Widot du Planty of the Seine, sent his boat on board to obtain permission to search two of our merchant vessels for deserters, then standing out of the harbour, as also others in port—to which Capt. Elliott replied, "that he was surprised at the receipt of a communication of the kind—that on no account must he be permitted to put his foot on board of the American vessels for this purpose." This ship has rendered great services in aiding our distressed countrymen. The hospitality of all on board is worthy of the warmest praise.

"The foreign ships of war are in high order, but the Cyane is not inferior to any of them. The commanders are very desirous of raising the blockade of Buenos Ayres, and only wait for our commander to set the example. Sir John Sinclair, in the Doris, has been here, who is on the best terms with our captain.

"It would seem that France and England are restless under the blockade, having millions either directly or indirectly connected with this measure. They will doubtless do all they can to secure the commercial advantages which the trade of this country may offer to the most favored. Capt. Elliott has not lost sight of this object, and will not let any opportunity escape of producing the best results from our timely arrival.—The navy of the United States is every day extending its high character. Our older officers seem to be known by reputation to most of the distinguished naval men we have met at this place. This is gratifying to those who take an interest in our naval concerns.—Balt. Gazette.

The packet ship Corinthian, which arrived here yesterday from Liverpool, experienced continual calms. The state of the weather throughout her passage, may be inferred from the remarkable fact that her topgallant sails, which were set at Liverpool by her pilot, were not taken in until orders to that effect were given by a New York pilot—so that she may be said to have drifted rather than to have sailed, across the Atlantic.—New York Gazette.

English Superstition.—"Last week a portion of the inhabitants of this town experienced a strong sensation of alarm at the discovery of an extraordinary thistle, growing upon a farm belonging to Mr. Henry Leigh, at Lammock. The plant was about a yard in height, and its stem was of the shape of a two edged sword, somewhat bent, and without leaves or branches, except at a very short distance from the flower. The flower itself was shapen much like a soldier's helmet, and in the middle was a very good resemblance of a cock's comb. On this fact becoming known all the ancient dames looked grave, Nixon's prophecies and the lucubrations of all the seers which have flourished since his time, not forgetting the renowned bone grubber, were consulted; but no solution of the direful omen could be obtained. The dames, therefore, immediately assumed the prophetic office, and denounced it as the precursor of the most direful tumults, bloodshed, and war."

Blackburn Mail.

The Crops.—We have seen, says the Baltimore Chronicle, a gentleman who has just returned from a visit to his friends in Virginia; he states that the crops of corn in the neighbourhood of Woodstock and the adjoining country, have never promised so fair as at present. Such are the prospects of a prolific crop, that one planter had offered to deliver a large quantity of corn at five shillings, Virginia money, per barrel, deliverable at Winchester.

COMMODORE PORTER.

From Mexico, we learn that Commodore Porter was about to take command of the Naval force at Vera Cruz, apartments having been provided for him, to guard against the diseases of the shore, in the Castle of St. John de Ulloa, where it is as healthy as it would be on board ship, until the marine shall be ready for sea.

The reception of Commodore Porter at the seat of Government of Mexico has been of the most satisfactory nature. The emoluments of his station are less than reported, but still considerable, say $5,400 per annum. The Government moreover, understanding that, in entering the Mexican service, Com. P. relinquished, of course an old claim which he had upon the Consulado of Havana, agreed to apply to the Government of Vera Cruz to place him in possession of a large tract of land on the fine river of Guasacualco. The Government of Vera Cruz has agreed to cede to the Commodore eleven leagues square in the richest and most beautiful part of the State. The tract contains about half a million of acres, and the route to the Pacific, for the establishment of which a decree has recently been made, will pass through it.

The American Congress of Deputies, which assembled some time ago at Panama, has adjourned, to meet at a village in the neighborhood of the City of Mexico, and hold its sessions there.

General Bolivar, it is expected, will have reached, before this time, the disaffected quarter of the State of Columbia; and there is reason to believe that the object of his return, the restoration of order, and of submission to the Constitution and laws of the Republic, will have been immediately accomplished, by his presence.—*Nat. Sale of blood Horses.—The sale of Horses belonging to the estate of the late Theo. Field, Esq., for some time past advertised in this paper, took place on Friday last. The correct judgment and skill of the deceased in selecting and rearing the best stock, together with the high reputation acquired by some of them as racers, attracted hither from a distance, a number of the gentlemen of the turf. In order to show how highly these horses were appreciated, we have thought proper to give the account sales of several: Gohanna, a fine blood bay horse, upwards of sixteen hands high, 3,500 dollars; Phillis, full sister to Gohanna, 1,654 dollars; Merino Ewe, sixteen years old, now in foal by Archie, the dam of Gohanna and Phillis, 1,205 dollars; a Bay Filley, twelve months old, 357 dollars; a Sorrel Filley, four months old, 500 dollars, also the offspring, of Merino Ewe; Calypso, Archie mare, 265 dollars; Lady Botts, grey mare, 150 dollars. Producing the handsome total of 7,959 dollars—and averaging $994 87½ each. We understand that none of the purchasers reside out of the State. VIRGINIA IS STILL HERSELF.—Intelligencer.

The Jefferson Fund.—We have ascertained, from the most respectable authority, that the most acceptable destination of the fund subscribed for the benefit of Mr. Jefferson, wherever such subscription has been made, will be to place it in the hands of Mr. Thomas J. Randolph. To the amount of that fund, whatever it may be, the estate left to Mrs. Randolph, the only daughter of Mr. Jefferson, will be relieved.—Nat. Int.

Macon, (Geo.) August 20.

No news of particular moment has yet been heard from the Indian Council at Broken Arrow. On the 21st inst. they had not commenced upon the business for which they were assembled (the distribution of the money arising from the Treaty, and the obtainment of the number of the emigrating party.) They had at that time been in secret session for three days, and it was understood they were engaged in reviewing the conduct of Opoethla Yoholo, and some other chiefs, who were last winter at Washington; particularly their attempt to appropriate the money of the Nation to themselves and their Cherokee Secretaries.—The Agents, Cols. Brearly and Crowell were there; a considerable number of Indians, of both parties had assembled, and were expected to continue in Council for several weeks.—Messenger.

The Nashville Republican of the 23d ult. makes some allusion to the strange attempt to attribute the merits of the defence of N. Orleans to Gen. Adair.

"That Gen. A. (says this paper) is a brave and skilful officer, is testified by all—but when the historic record of the fact is appealed to, that he did not arrive with the Kentucky troops at New Orleans until some time in January—until after the battle of the 23d of December had checked and rendered the British cautious. After Gen. Jackson had marked out and fortified his line of defence and withstood the enemy on the 25th, 28th Dec. and 1st of January."—If this be so, then we may conclude with the Editor of the Republican, "that Gen. A., however brave and skilful he may be, was not there until the 5th or 6th, and took part in none of the defence but in the battle of the 8th."—Rich. Enquirer.

A letter from Chester district, states that "the cry for bread has been dreadful.—No corn; and when wheat first began to be ground, people flocked to the mill for miles around, waiting for Shorts, (horse feed) for which they gave $3 per hundred and $5 for Flour. Although I am not among the greatest crop sufferers, yet those fields which I calculated would yield a thousand bushels of corn in good seasons, will not produce more than four hundred, therefore you may judge how much the east side of Chester has suffered.—On Broad river the crops appear as well as usual."

Greenville Republican, 26th ult.

Political Sanders.—A lady who visited Mr. Jefferson in 1822, says that in his cabinet a coarse looking volume attracted her notice. On opening it, she found it to consist of pieces cut out of newspapers and pasted on the blank leaves of the book. The volume was entitled "Libels," and contained all that had so lavishly, during the war of politics, been written against him.

FROM THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER.

Carrying jokes too far.—That worthless vagabond, John Pluck, who carries in his pockets a commission from the Governor of Pennsylvania, as a Colonel of the Militia of that State, after making a fool of himself, and a thousand others who went to see him in this city, has gone on a tour through the Eastern States. At Providence he was gazetted as the "lion" of the day, and at Boston his arrival is announced, accompanied by a biographical sketch. If the foolery ended here, it would not be so bad; but it appears that on the voyage from New York to Boston, in the steam-boat Washington, a meeting of the passengers was held, a Chairman and Secretary named, and Pluck was nominated for Vice President of the United States, in connexion with the Philadelphia nomination of Gen. Jackson for President. The resolutions are signed by the Chairman and Secretary, and published in the usual form at Providence. Now we look upon this procedure as absolutely disgraceful. To say that it is a mere matter of sport, of fun and frolic, is no excuse. If the miserable representative of Gov. Shultz's military character, is willing to go through the country dressed like a military zany, and exhibiting himself to the friends of vulgar sport for a shilling a-piece, he has a right to do so—and the civil authority have a right to take him up as a vagrant. But to couple his name in this manner with that of Jackson—the Hero of New Orleans—who is a pure and elevated patriot, and a real benefactor to his country, is in every point of view inexcusable, and disgraceful to the authors. Gen. Jackson has a right to compete with Mr. Adams, or any body else for the Presidency, and his friends have a right to support him. It is true, he is not the candidate of our choice, and will not be, so long as Mr. Adams administers the government with the same just and enlightened views, and the same inflexibility of purpose, which have thus far marked his Presidential career. But we honor Jackson as a man of talents and great bravery, of a high and chivalrous character, of unbending and uncompromising integrity, and as an ardent lover of his country. And we despise the man, who, in yielding a fair and honorable support to the candidate of his choice, will not conduct himself with equal fairness and honor towards a high-minded opponent.

THE "HOLY" INQUISITION.—It appears from documents that must be deemed authentic, that this infernal tribunal in Spain, during the eighteen years that an infamous wretch, named Torquemada, was inquisitor general, (to which office he was appointed by the most pious pope SIXTUS VI. and the most catholic king Ferdinand V.) no less than 10,220 persons were burnt alive, 6,640 burnt in effigy, and 97,371 sent to the gallies or to prison—all under the horrible and blasphemous plea of supporting the mild and glorious doctrines of JESUS CHRIST! The grand totals of the priestly murders and persecutions in Spain, are as follows: burned alive 34,658, in effigy 18,049, sent to the galleys, 288,214—besides those that were imprisoned, or quietly put to death in dungeons by starvation or disease, for the honor of the cross! And these things are among the 'ancient and venerable' institutions that the late Governeur Morris exhorted Spain to "rejoice" in the restoration of, in a mad oration, which was listened to by a portion, (a little one, only) of the American people, in the mad days of party spirit, not many years ago! It seems that the "holy inquisition" was first completely organized in 1203 by his holiness pope INNOCENT III; but it was his holiness pope Gregory IV, under whom it was authorized more fully to murder men, that Christianity might abound! There is a great deal of this infamous stuff still remaining in the world, and much of a disposition to employ the 'fire and faggot' even among ourselves, for the conversion of infidels.

Niles.

Mr. S. Stewart, an ingenious mechanic of Philadelphia, has invented a machine for the manufacturing of cotton and woollen cards, by a single operation, bending and cutting the wire of a suitable size, piercing the leather and setting the teeth, thus completing a card of any desirable length or width, with no other effort than that of turning a small crank, requiring about as much force as to propel a small grindstone. It is added that the machine of Mr. S. finished in the best manner, can be afforded at about $100.

A good distinction.—In the long list of nominations to various public offices, which are contained in the Baltimore papers, we notice that certain candidates are to be supported by "friends to public education," "friends to public schools," &c. If the opposing candidates claim support upon opposite grounds, we most heartily wish success to the former, without inquiring who are federalists, and who are democrats, if, indeed, any such distinction is acknowledged in Baltimore.—U. S. Gazette.

OBSERVER.

FAYETTEVILLE:

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, SEPT. 13, 1826.

Corn—Has fallen again this week; it is now 75 to 80 cents per bushel.

Clarendon Bridge.—We understand that a report has been circulated in some of the northern counties, that this Bridge had fallen down, and that it would consequently be difficult to pass the Cape Fear river; and that the report has induced persons who would have come to the Fayetteville market, to go to Petersburg. We are happy to state that the Bridge has a better foundation than the report; that it still stands, an ornament and advantage to the town.

Robberies.—A trunk was cut from behind a gig in which two gentlemen were travelling, a few miles north of this town, on Thursday last. It was raining, and the gig top being hoisted, the gentlemen did not immediately discover their loss. The trunk contained nothing but clothes, and has since been recovered—It was broken open, but nothing taken out. On Saturday last, between 2 and 3 o'clock P. M., the store of Messrs. Tillinghast was entered by a back window, and a trunk broken open and a small amount of money stolen. And on the night of the same day, two warehouses were robbed of small parcels of cotton. Only one of the offenders (a negro) has been discovered and punished. We need not recommend vigilance to the citizens, since it is apparent that every instance of successful roguery will make other rogues, and add to the insecurity of property.

A gentleman who came passenger in the northern stage this morning requests us to mention that the trunk of a fellow passenger was cut from behind the stage yesterday morning, about a mile beyond Louisburg, in Franklin county. His own trunk was saved, as the noise made by the robber alarmed the driver. The trunk lost contained little else than clothes, of the value of about $150.

Judge Murphey's Lottery.—The first drawing of this Lottery doubtlessly took place on Monday last, and it gives us pleasure to understand that it will be drawn so rapidly that the whole will be completed early in December. It is to be hoped that State pride will induce the citizens to patronize this Lottery, and thereby contribute to so desirable an object as the publication of a History of the State by a man of Judge Murphey's acknowledged abilities. To the adventurer in Lotteries generally, it offers an inducement rarely held out of late, viz. that the Tickets are still sold at the original scheme price.

The late Judicial appointment.—The Catawba Journal, and a writer in the Western Carolinian, complain, and with much reason, we think, of the appointment of Judge Mangum to the bench of the Superior Courts, by the Council of State. The main ground of complaint is, that Judge Mangum resides in Orange county, which has had more of these appointments within the last ten years than the whole of the State besides; and where three out of the six Judges now reside. This is a very unfair distribution, or rather monopoly, of an office equally important to every part of the State; since the incumbents are frequently called on to exercise some of their functions between the terms of the Courts. A person here having business with one of the Judges must go 80 miles to Hillsborough; from Wilmington 110 miles to Newbern; and from the extreme western part of the State about the same distance. If the Judges were appointed from different parts of the State, say one from each Judicial District, this inconvenience would be materially lessened. It is very justly remarked, that Mr. Mangum's standing, either as a Lawyer or a Judge, is not so respectable as to outweigh these considerations of convenience.

We have heard other objections to the appointment, which it is needless to mention—it is as unpopular here as in the west, and a strong hope is entertained that the Legislature will not confirm it.

The Governor having been mentioned in one of the articles alluded to above, we think no blame can attach to him for this or any other appointment. If we mistake not, he has no vote, his duty being performed merely by making known the vacancy and naming the candidates.

We have received a polite note from the gentleman who proposes to establish a Military Academy at Williamsborough, stating that he was and still is anxious to complete his arrangements, and to ascertain if patronage would be extended to an institution of the kind, before his name appeared. His arrangements are now almost completed, and the School will go into operation in January. He states that he graduated at one of the best Military Schools in France, and had the rank of Captain conferred upon him in the field of battle by Napoleon, in whose army he served five years. In a short time he will satisfy the public curiosity by publishing all desirable information. We wish him success.

"Patrick Henry."—The Editors of the National Intelligencer have been authorised to contradict the report that the President of the United States wrote the articles under the above signature, relative to the powers of the President of the Senate. The National Journal had done this repeatedly and positively, but finding its assertion was not credited, (because certain persons cannot be believed, even when they speak truth,) Mr. A. has thus denied the authorship through the Intelligencer. We are glad he has done so, as it would not look well for the first officer in the republic to attempt to write down the second.

At the commencement in Harvard College, Mass. on the 31st ult., the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on Governor Lincoln, Hon. Jas. Lloyd, and William Sullivan, of Massachusetts, and the Hon. Wm. Gaston, of Newbern, in this state.

The Commissioners of Georgia and Alabama, for running the Boundary Line between those States, have disagreed and separated, the Georgia Commissioners continuing to mark the Line in the direction for which they contended, which is 20 or 30 miles from that contended for by Alabama. The question will probably be amicably settled.

It would not be in our nature to refuse the good humoured offer of his hand made by the Editor of the Cheraw Spectator, if it had not just before misquoted and misrepresented us. The Editor quotes us as saying, "The Spectator is offended at what he [ourself] says of the Bank." We never said so. We keep a file of our own paper though we do not of the Spectator, and therefore know we never said this or any thing like it.

As the Editor has kindly pointed out a few blemishes in our style, we will reciprocate the favor; by informing him that those who read his paper are of opinion that his editorial articles treat too much of himself. Though there may be no other subject so interesting to him, he should not forget that he has a variety of tastes to suit. "A word to the wise."

Colonization.—At a late annual meeting of the Greensborough Auxiliary Colonization Society, in this State, it was proposed that the Legislature be requested to solicit the General Government to employ some portion of the Navy in removing the free people of color to the Colony in Africa.

The Philadelphia United States Gazette concludes an article on the Internal Improvement of that State with the following sensible remarks. We have ever been of the opinion that the gold mines of this State were no real advantage, except as they might serve to awaken a spirit of inquiry after the real riches of the country, with which no part of the Union, we suppose, more abounds than North Carolina; and there is no part of the Union, in which it has been, until lately, so little known.

"Fortunately Pennsylvania produces little of the precious metals; her metalic products are like her citizens, rather remarkable for use than show—calculated for general and extensive, rather than for particular benefits. They invite and reward patient industry rather than rash cupidity, and add to the moral wealth of the state, as well as its permanent pecuniary interest. Those, therefore, who have not been enticed by the chances of gathering up wealth from the gold mines of our neighbors, may settle upon the productive hills of our interior, and acquire a competence by easy and certain gradations; and those who have been seduced by the golden show, may come and dig iron for others, instead of picking up gold for themselves."

Among the visiters at Saratoga, is a lady only 27 years old, who is accompanied by her daughter and grand-daughter, aged 10 months. She is probably the youngest grandmother in the country, and the group attract much attention.—Balt. Pat.

[This may be true, but we should like to know how it was ascertained. The age of a lady is not always written on her forehead.]

We find the following singular circumstance in a late Nat. Intelligencer, and do not doubt that it is true, since it is vouched for by persons in the City of Washington, probably known to the Editors. It is a striking instance of the triumph of perseverance over the greatest obstacles.

"On Friday last, (1st instant) a spider was discovered by the workmen in the Rock Creek Paper Mill, apparently in contact with a small black snake, about nine inches long. When first discovered, the snake was snapping at the spider, and at each snap or jump of the snake, the spider lapped his web round the head of the snake, and still kept looping him up to his fastening. This combat continued all day on Friday, and all Saturday, until the evening, when the spider completely conquered, and had killed the snake. On Sunday, (yesterday) he had him well lashed about the head, middle and tail, and had him hoisted eighteen inches up in his web, where he is now hanging, and the spider feeding on him. What is remarkable, is, that this spider is not bigger than a common fly. They can both be seen in the web at the paper mill, and all the above facts attested by William Leish, foreman, Edward Levis, George Miller, and Samuel Norwood, workmen in the mill, and by all the hands working there."

Sept. 4, 1826. EDGAR PATTERSON.

Foreign.—By the latest arrivals from Europe, London and Paris papers to the 31st July have been received. The crisis seems to have been passed in England, and hopes are entertained of a steady improvement. In almost every description of produce, including Cotton, Coffee, and Sugars, a rise had taken place.

No news of importance from Greece. Lord Cochrane and his fleet had not been heard of.

The Turkish government still continued to execute and exile its disaffected subjects. It is reckoned that 20,000 have been put to death, and 40,000 banished.

London, July 30.

Little can be offered in the way of interest to our readers, except the cheering intelligence which has recently reached town from the manufacturing districts. The stories of meetings of a political character in those parts are all unfounded; one miscreant made an attempt to excite discontent, but it failed. The general accounts are of a much more agreeable character than those we have lately received. In the colonial market, there has been, within these few days, a great increase of demand, if not of price; and in our home concerns, the establishment of the Branch Banks bas not only given great satisfaction, but promises the most important aid and relief to the merchant and manufacturer.

Parliament has been further prorogued to the 24th August.

We have already announced the adjournment of the American Congress of Deputies, to meet again in the neighbourhood of Mexico, (only a few miles distant from that city.) It appears that this adjournment was not without good reason. Of the few persons assembled, Mr. Dawkins, the British Commissioner to Panama, had lost, by death, both his Secretaries. That shore is more fatal to the lives of visiters than even the coast of Africa is to the whites. The Commissioner of the King of the Netherlands had gone to Vera Cruz, to be nearer the place of re-union. But if he stays long there, the fate of the two British Secretaries will almost certainly overtake him—the climate of Vera Cruz being as fatal to strangers as that of Panama.—Nat. Int.

Mendicancy.—A French paper says that, according to the official lists sent to the Spanish Minister of Grace and Justice, there are in that peninsula eight hundred thousand beggars! The beggars in Spain have ever been proverbially numerous. The Catholic religion is remarkable for nothing so much as the charity it inculcates. But it is a charity which rarely investigates, and therefore too often encourages, mendicancy. Those travellers who describe Spain as she was thirty or forty years ago, speak of whole armies of beggars which infested the gates of Convents and the doors of the Episcopal palaces. Yet, vast as the number (800,000) appears, it may be fairly asserted that it is exceeded in amount by the poor who are supported in England from public and private benevolence.

MARRIED,

In Chatham county a few days ago, Dr. Joseph Hawkins to Miss Fanny Minter, daughter of the late Maj. Joseph Minter.

DIED,

At Salem, a few weeks since, Miss Malvina Zenely, daughter of Van N. Zenely, Esq., and grand daughter of the Rev. G. Shober, in the 17th year of her age.

In the City of New York, on the 6th inst., Judge William P. Van Ness, in the 48th year of his age.—He died without a moment's sickness or any apparent pain.

At Columbia, S. C., on the 16th ult., after an illness of three days, in the 33d year of his age, Mr. John Robson, merchant. Mr. R. was a native of England. ☞ We are informed that this person is not the Mr. Robson who formerly resided in this place, as erroneously stated in the Raleigh Register.

Another Revolutionary Patriot gone!

At his seat in Iredell county, on the last day of July, after a lingering illness of 83 days, Maj. Thomas Harris, in the 89th year of his age. Early in our struggle for independence, Maj. Harris received two captains' commissions on the same day; one from King George III. the other from the Continental Congress: he hesitated not a moment which to accept. He was immediately ordered to the north, where he remained with the army nearly two years; was in the battle of Brandywine and Germantown, and after the battle of Germantown went with the army into winter quarters. He became, through sickness, unable to attend to the duties of his command, and resigned. He returned to his family in Mecklenburg; and as soon as his health would permit, he joined a party commanded, I believe, by Governor Martin, to break up a nest of tories at some place towards Wilmington. He then joined the army under Gen. Gates, with the rank of Major; and at the battle of Camden, or, as it is generally termed, Gates' defeat, he acted as aid to Gen. Rutherford. Early in the action he received three wounds, and fell. One of the balls entered his right shoulder, and passing through, lodged in the hind part of the left shoulder, where it was cut out; another passed through his cheek; in this situation he was taken prisoner, and continued one until peace.—*Ca. ## POETRY.

The Traveller at the Source of the Nile.

BY MRS. HEMANS.

In sunset's light, o'er Afric thrown,
A wanderer proudly stood
Beside the well-spring, deep and lone,
Of Egypt's awful flood;
The cradle of that mighty birth,
So long a hidden thing to earth!

He heard its life's first murmuring sound,
A low mysterious tone;
A music sought, but never found,
By kings and warriors gone;
He listened—and his heart beat high—
That was the song of victory!

The rapture of a conqueror's mood
Rush'd burning through his frame,—
The depth of that green solitude
Its torrents could not tame;
Though stillness lay, with eve's last smile—
'Round those far fountains of the Nile.

Night came with stars:—across his soul
There swept a sudden change,
E'en at the pilgrim's glorious goal
A shadow dark and strange
Breathed from the thought, so swift to fall
O'er triumph's hour—and is this all?

No more than this!—what seem'd it now
First by that spring to stand?
A thousand streams of lovelier flow
Bathed his own mountain land!
Whence far o'er waste and ocean track,
Their wild sweet voices called him back.

They called him back to many a glade,
His childhood's haunt of play,
Where brightly through the beechen shade
Their waters glanced away;
They called him with their sounding waves,
Back to his fathers' hills and graves.

But darkly mingling with the thought
Of each familiar scene,
Rose up a fearful vision, fraught
With all that lay between;
The Arab's lance, the desert's gloom.
The whirling sands, the red simoom!

Where was the glow of power and pride?
The spirit born to roam?
His altered heart within him died
With yearning for his home!
All vainly struggling to repress
That gush of painful tenderness.

He wept—the stars of Afric's heaven
Behold his bursting tears,
E'en on that spot where fate had given
The meed of toiling years!
—Oh, happiness! how far we flee
Thine own sweet paths in search of thee!
